

It is vital to the preservation of our democracy that the media not be consolidated in the hands of a few media barrens; we need ownership of the media to be as widespread as possible as a means to insure availability of all sides of issues.